

PROVO NEIGHBORHOOD DISTRICT PROGRAM

Welcome to your Neighborhood District Meeting!

Sign in, get food, sit down, make a difference!

A close-up photograph of a person's hand holding a green plastic bottle, positioned over a recycling bin. The bin has yellow and blue openings. The background is a blurred green, suggesting an outdoor setting. A dark grey horizontal band is overlaid across the middle of the image, containing the title and subtitle in white text.

FUTURE MATCHING GRANT IDEAS

CARTERVILLE PATH?

- Several years effort
- Expense high ($300,000?)
- Land donation
- Will keep on it

Public Works Director Gordon Haight presented a list of “Honorable Mentions” at yesterday’s Provo City Council Work Meeting (list of future projects for when they have more funds)

“There was a lot of interest on the Carterville path behind Walmart. It wasn’t important because we didn’t have the right-of-way and it turned out they [landowner] gave us a letter and said we could have the right-of-way. So they’re asking when will you do this project? So it’s a good honorable mention...They’re kind of asking--to put more pressure on when we will do this...They would like to have it...But again, it’s honorable mention so we do not have a timeline.”

(Projected cost is $400,000 and the landowner has not offered to contribute funds to this project -- right now Provo City does not have funds or timeline.)

EXCHANGE PARK MONUMENT?

Representing Indigenous People Of Utah

Not the actual monument

Notes from Wayne Leavitt regarding a monument at Exchange Park:

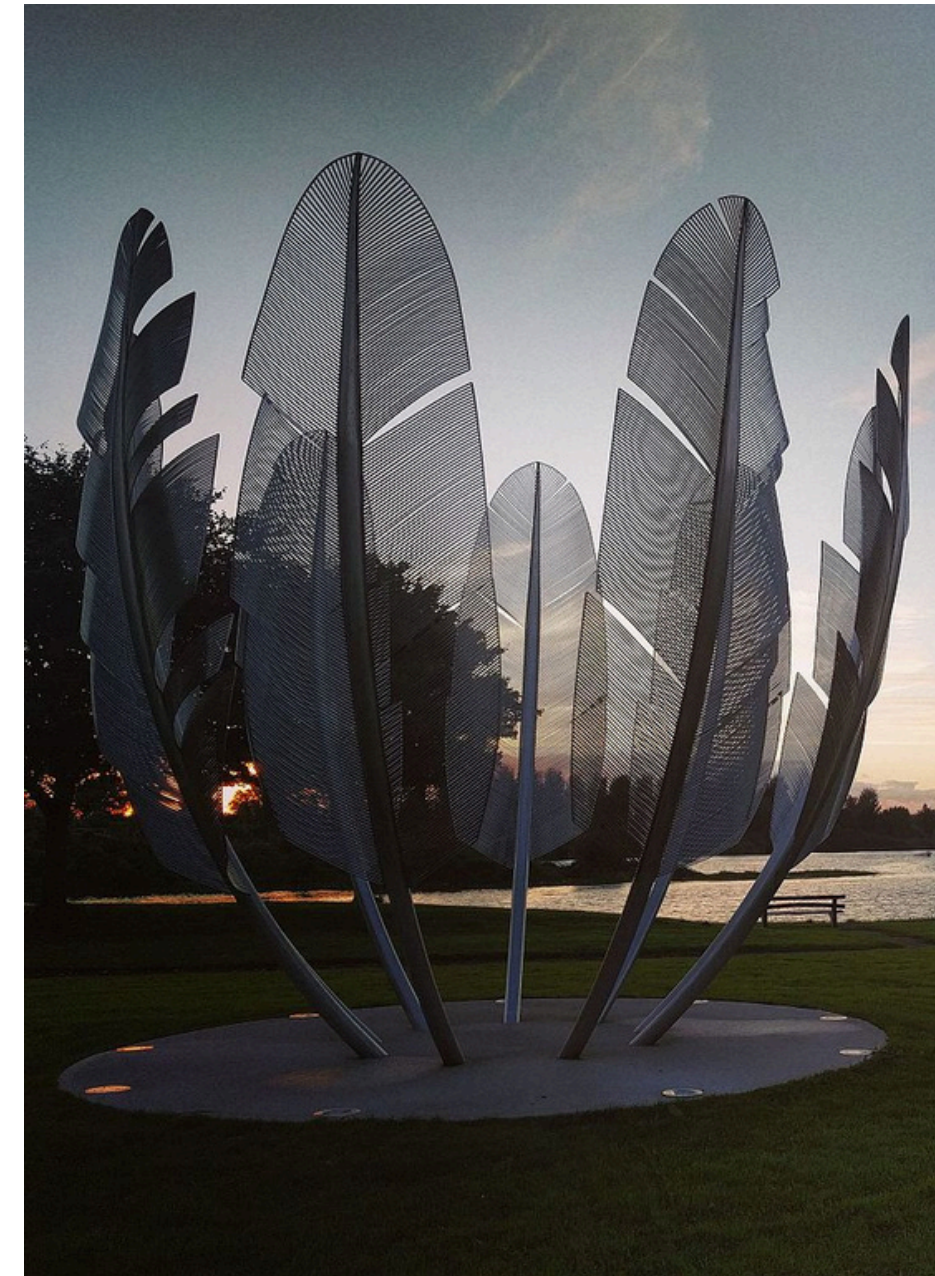

- Seek out Timpanogots descendants who are willing to collaborate.
- Create something that will feel meaningful to everyone who visits.

CHESS TABLE IN PARK?

Not the actual table

From James Cornaby,
Provo Parks & Grounds Superintendent:

“Doug [Robins] and the team met yesterday and we are questioning if this is really a need that needs to be met for the community. Pioneer and North parks are both very busy locations and deciding on a permanent location would be challenging. We welcome chess players in the parks and encourage them to bring their own chess sets and come and enjoy the peaceful atmosphere of the parks.”

NEW PAVILION? North Park
